Avoiding complacency through chronic unease can help ensure process safety
BY LINDA HSIEH, MANAGING EDITOR 33

Human factors: the next safety frontier
Non-technical skills emerge as critical element to take drilling safety to next level
BY LINDA HSIEH, MANAGING EDITOR 35

Automation drives need for human factors engineering
BY LINDA HSIEH, MANAGING EDITOR 43

Leading process safety KPI's enhance barrier management on NCS
System turns risk analyses, safety cases and complex data into KPIs to ensure barriers function when needed
BY KARL ERIK DAHL, PRESIGHT SOLUTIONS 45

BP looks to self-verification to strengthen procedural discipline
BY LINDA HSIEH, MANAGING EDITOR 49

Maersk training, Weatherford team up for true-to-life, simulator-based MPD training
BY RICHARD LIGHTBODY, MAERSK TRAINING 51

Industry needs to become wiser when it comes to incident investigations
BY KELLI AINSWORTH, EDITORIAL COORDINATOR 53

Simplified requirements reduce potential to overwhelm humans' short-term memory capacity
BY ALEX ENDRESS, EDITORIAL COORDINATOR 55

Thorogood challenges industry to broaden views on safety, do more to understand, train drilling crews on human factors

DROPPED OBJECTS

Safe lifting initiatives focus on awareness, drops prevention
Companies work to enhance communication, empowerment, ensure procedures always followed
BY KATHERINE SCOTT, EDITORIAL COORDINATOR 59

Lifting guide: Hoist safety tips every rigger, operator should know

Pre-operational checks, attention to lifting capacity, proper rigging all help to reduce incidents

BY PETER COOKE, COLUMBUS MCKINNON 65

Shell: Industry must enhance understanding of dynamic drops while not losing focus on static drops

SAFETY CULTURE

Dickerson: Reporting is key to achieve zero-incident operations

BY JOANNE LIOU, ASSOCIATE EDITOR. 70

Noble program details 5 pillars leaders should exhibit to impact safety culture

BY JOANNE LIOU, EDITORIAL COORDINATOR 71

Management must lead way to culture of commitment, not of compliance

BY LAUREN WOLFSON, EDITORIAL ASSISTANT 73

Active risk assessment, global sharing at core of Nabors safety intervention program

BY ASTRID WYNNE, CONTRIBUTING EDITOR. 75

Darus: Non-compromising attitude toward safety must emanate from top down

BY ASTRID WYNNE, CONTRIBUTING EDITOR. 77

Panel: Embedding safety culture requires creative, integrated approach

BY ASTRID WYNNE, CONTRIBUTING EDITOR. 78

GENERAL SAFETY

Effective security plan protects assets, manages risks

BY KATIE MAZEROV, CONTRIBUTING EDITOR 80

Rynd: Zero risk tolerance is next step to improve safety

BY KATHERINE SCOTT, EDITORIAL COORDINATOR 82

Dynamic risk assessment: Helping employees 'stay in the moment' to take right action at right time
BY LINDA HSIEH, MANAGING EDITOR 83

Due diligence assessments, user friendly documentation critical to keeping employees safe in high-risk areas
BY LINDA HSIEH, MANAGING EDITOR 85

Alliance governance can help manage risk in contractor/service company interface
BY LINDA HSIEH, MANAGING EDITOR, AND LAUREN WOLFSON, EDITORIAL ASSISTANT 87

Case study from mining: Image-driven safety campaign removes communication barriers
BY JOANNE LIOU, ASSOCIATE EDITOR 89

Danish safety regulator: One-door solution to help contractors focus on safety, not paperwork
BY LINDA HSIEH, MANAGING EDITOR 91

Joint safety improvement plan aligns HSE objectives, 'language' for Shell, Halliburton
BY ASTRID WYNNE, CONTRIBUTING EDITOR 93

TRAINING

Eight steps to grow the right people
BY JOANNE LIOU, ASSOCIATE EDITOR 95

Shifting gears from a culture of training to a culture of competence assurance
BY JOANNE LIOU, EDITORIAL COORDINATOR 98

10 tools to build more effective training
BY KATHERINE SCOTT, EDITORIAL COORDINATOR 100

Construction industry may have lessons on crane operator certification
BY KATHERINE SCOTT, EDITORIAL COORDINATOR 102

Assessment, training and leadership foster confidence in competencies at BP
